The European Business Development Conference (EBDC) is an annual event for leading decision makers from biotechnology and pharmaceutical firms. About half of innovative drugs result from national – but especially international – collaborations. The EBDC provides a forum for making contacts and discussing topics and trends of relevance to the market.

The conference participants come from a wide range of backgrounds. Decision makers from innovative biotech firms can meet business development managers from pharmaceutical companies, finance professionals, service providers and consultants. This means that you can meet experts from all areas of business development. The event is thus an ideal occasion for making contacts of strategic and operational importance.

Attendee profile
