At Medicyte we are using our proprietary technologies upcyte® and vericyte® to drive non-dividing human primary cells back into proliferation without altering their relevant tissue specific properties. By doing this we can generate homogeneous cell batches of up to 10 billion physiologically relevant cells from cell types whose availability is otherwise limited. customers of our cellular products are the pharmaceutical, chemical and cosmetics industries and academic institutions.

Medicyte provides assay-ready cells from various upcyted® human, healthy or diseased tissues and optimized medium formulations off the shelf but is also outlicensing its technology for custom upcyting® of requested tissues.

We can provide up to 2000+ vials per cell type and donor, thus eliminating availability bottlenecks and donor-to-donor variation.
